TIRE PLANTS STOUTLY DENY PRICE FIXING

Claim Good Record and Declare They'll Fight U. S. Suit "To Limit."

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Aug. 19—Federal charges that makers of 90 per cent of the nation's tires have conspired for 12 years to fix prices will be fought "to the limit," said E. J. Thomas, president of Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co.

The criminal complaint naming 12 defendants was filed late yesterday in federal district court for the southern district of New York. It quickly brought denials from the tiremakers, who said that tire prices now are at or below pre-war levels.

The action, Thomas said, "seems utterly preposterous."

William O'Neil, president of General Tire and Rubber Co., said that tires are selling 2.4 per cent below pre-war levels and the suit "just doesn't make sense."

"On the basis of present living costs as compared with 1941 the price of tires is down almost 54 per cent," O'Neil said.

Herbert E. Smith, president of the U. S. Rubber Co., said three of the four tires which account for 75 per cent of his firm's business sell below pre-war levels.

Firestone Echoes Plea

A statement from Firestone Tire and Rubber Co., said that although living costs were up 51.4 per cent since 1941, its first quality tires were 2.4 per cent cheaper.

"This," Firestone said, "is defeating the forces of inflation and is a notable example of competitive free enterprise in action."

J. L. Cochrun, vice president in charge of sales for the Sieberling Rubber Co., said that "we strongly believe there is no justification for the charge."

The criminal action against the tiremakers followed by a few hours the filing of a civil anti-trust action in federal district court in Los Angeles which William C. Dickson, chief of the west coast antitrust division, said was to "make possible and early and substantial increase in color motion pictures for the public."

The civil suit charged that Technicolor Motion Picture Corp. and Eastman Kodak Co. conspired to give Technicolor a monopoly on the processing of Kodak's monopack color film. The suit directs cancellation of their contract and release of the process to the whole industry on a royalty-free basis.

Eastman Denies Charge

At Rochester, N. Y., Eastman's President Thomas J. Hargrave said the firm had no existing arrangement "by which technicolor does or could control or monopolize the professional color motion picture field."

Technicolor made no comment immediately.

A reply to the federal trade commission's "cease and desist" order against steelmakers, whom it accused Sunday of conspiring to fix prices and stifle competition, came last night from Irving S. Olds, board chairman of the U. S. Steel Corporation.

Contending that the present pricing system in the industry had been evolved through 50 years "as a natural consequence of the fundamental economic and competitive conditions existing in that industry," Olds said adoption of the commission's pricing plan would cause "chaotic conditions" in industries consuming steel.

"Local steel monopolies and higher assembly and steel production costs would displace the present widespread competition and production costs in the steel industry," Olds said.

The information alleges that the tiremakers have maintained the Rubber Manufacturers Association, Inc., of New York, since May, 1935, "as a means by which the prices of tires and tubes were fixed."

Named with association as defendants were eight companies and 10 individuals.

The companies are General, Goodyear, Firestone, Seiberling, all of Akron, Ohio; and Dayton Rubber Co., Lee Tire and Rubber Corp., Conshohocken, Pa., and U. S. Rubber of New York.

Individual defendants are Cochran, I. Elsbrouch, vice president of Dayton Rubber; A. A. Garthwaite Sr., Lee president; H. N. Hawkes, U. S. Rubber assistant general manager; Lee R. Jackson, Firestone executive vice president; L. W. McQueen, General Tire vice president; J. J. Newman, Goodrich vice president; R. S. Wilson, Goodyear vice president; A. L. Viles, president of the association, and George Flint, association assistant secretary.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19—CIO local unions were told today that national labor relations board services will be barred to them unless every member of the 51-man CIO executive board swears he is not a Communist.

Similarly, no AFL union can petition for a collective bargaining election or bring an unfair labor practice charge against an employer unless each of the 15 members of the federation's executive council files a non-Communist affidavit.

4,000 Turn Out For White Horse Show at Fair; Races Tonight

The Marion Fairgrounds was swarming with spectators again last night as the ninety-seventh annual fair opened for the second of a six-day run. Official count for last night was approximately 4,000. There was no program in the afternoon.

Exhibitors were still busily engaged in arranging their displays and the various halls were again coming in for their share.

The racing meet will open tonight at 8:15. A list of the entries appears on the sports page in tonight's Star.

At the evening entertainment show yesterday which featured the albino horses bred and trained by Cal and Ruth Thompson, the grandstand was again filled with the overflow sitting wherever they could find an open spot or standing along the fences.

Marionites were surprised when the riders appeared to find all except the owners were young boys and girls ranging in age from 6 to 18 years of age. Dressed in red shirts and white pants, the youthful riders went through their paces riding bareback, and often without halters on their mounts.

Rides Like Veteran

The six-year-old girl took her albino pony over the jumps with the ease of a veteran. The young people are horse-lovers who come to the western White Horse Ranch for training in riding.

All the mounts were trained in standing on the special stools, balancing on the teeter-totter doing dance steps in time to music, bowing, two horses lying down with necks crossed, and jumping.

All except Mr. and Mrs. Thompson rode bareback, taking the albinos over the hurdles sometimes without holding on, other times by clinging to the mane. A special feature was the act of one, two, three, four and finally five horses jumping the barrier at the same time with the rider standing with one foot on each side of the outside horses. The three youths who accomplished this trick averaged 17 years of age.

Trained Cattle

A novel twist of entertainment was the showing of a white shorthorn bull and cow that had been trained in the same tricks, bowing, jumping a lower barrier, standing on the low stools, lying down and balancing on the teeter-totter. The offspring of the pair added a special note of amusement by demanding supper while "mamma and pappa" were showing off. Even the calf couldn't make the dancing parents lose a step or make an error in their routine.

Climaxing the show was the appearance of all riders with banners advertising a musical review, going from one act to another at the note of a whistle.

A five-piece band furnished the musical program and the catchy tunes were enough to set one two-year-old blue-eyed blond little girl to keeping time on her father's lap.

Setting for the orchestra was a fiesta background resembling a Spanish hacienda.

CITY OF CADIZ NEARLY RUINED

Buildings Razed, Homes Destroyed, Street Cars Derailed by Explosion.

By The Associated Press

CADIZ, Spain, Aug. 19 — Newspapermen estimated today that possibly more than 400 persons were killed and several thousand were injured in the explosion last night of a naval torpedo and ocean mine factory and warehouse of the Cadiz peninsula.

First estimates of damage were placed at $10,000,000.

The nearby residential district was wrecked.

Resulting fires destroyed the Echevarrieta and Larrinaga shipyards.

Buildings were damaged and windows shattered throughout this ancient port city of 80,000, which was left without water, electricity and railroad or highway communications.

No Clue To Cause

So complete was the ruin of the naval arsenal, situated about two miles from central Cadiz, that no clue was left to the cause of disaster.

The force of the explosion cracked buildings in the heart of Cadiz. Street cars were derailed. The huge doors of the Cadiz cathedral were torn from their hinges.

The explosion came at 10 p. m. last night.

The heaviest casualties and damage were believed in the summer colony and residential district of San Severiano, which is near the submarine naval base in the neck of the narrow peninsula.

Spanish authorities announced no estimate of the casualties.

Population Is Mixture

The population of the San Severiano district, which received the full force of the explosion, was about equally divided between summer vacation transients and workers.

Many prominent persons who live in chalets along the peninsula coast were expected to be among the injured.

Eduardo Callejo de la Cuesta, president of the council of state, was reported injured slightly.

Some of the costliest damage was expected at the Echevarrieta shipyards. The new naval training ship, Juan de Austria, which was about ready for launching, was destroyed by fire. Many smaller boats also burned.

Cadiz was isolated by the blast, which was so heavy that it cracked windows in Jerez de la Frontera, 15 miles away. The only information came from radio broadcasts by a fishing boat which could be heard by a station in Jerez.

Report Hospitals Filled

There was no official indication of the number of casualties, but unconfirmed reports said Cadiz hospitals were filled with victims and the fishing boat broadcast appeals for help. Civilian and military rescue teams rushed toward Cadiz from all over Cadiz province.

Ambulances brought five injured persons to Jerez de la Frontera early this morning and reported that boats were carrying others to Sevilla and other ports near Cadiz.

The Spanish cabinet issued a communique announcing that Rear Adm. Francisco Regalado Rodriguez, minister of the navy, had been sent to Cadiz to direct rescue work and give all possible aid to the "gravely" damaged city.

Fire Again Feared

Cadiz said new explosions were feared as a result of the flames. A special broadcast by the Jerez radio station said Cadiz authorities had appealed for all fire-fighting equipment in Spain within a 150-mile radius of Cadiz to rush to the scene, and had also asked for doctors and nurses.

The naval experts stationed at Cadiz, and whose work also had appealed to nearby cities to come to the city's aid. Authorities were said to fear that a number of persons trapped in summer [illegible] of the blast.

Diesel Units or Outside Hookup Urged To Correct Galion Electric Power Woes

Special to The Star

GALION, Aug. 19—Report on the Galion municipal light and power plant, released by Mayor William Amann today, recommends either hookup with outside power, or installation of diesel generating units while the municipal plant is being brought up to production of sufficient power for city and industrial needs.

This was the jist of a report about 30 pages in length received by city officials over the weekend from engineer consultants in Kansas City, Mo., brought here to study the electric power situation several weeks ago. Manufacturers had previously charged the municipal plant could not provide the quantity of power needed by industries and asked city council to hook up with outside power. Industrial plants were closed two weeks in June while repairs were made to the municipal power plant.

Mayor Amann announced a meeting Friday night of council with the manufacturers committee, citizens committee and electric light committee to give the report a thorough study.

Big Expense Ahead

No matter which plan is adopted, Mayor Amann stated, the city will be at great expense in providing the needed power. He said that personally, he is in favor of installing diesels, while the manufacturers have expressed preference for hooking up with outside power. In his opinion, he remarked, two diesels would be sufficient to provide the needed power, but in any consideration, one should be installed. It was pointed out that two years would be needed to bring the municipal plant up to production of the quantity of power needed, including putting in a turbine, steam boilers and switch gears.

Figures on the suggested plans were listed as $500,000 for outside power and for installation of three diesels, the cost would be over $1,000,000. Cost of the two-year plan of improvement for the municipal plant would be more than $1,000,000, it was stated.

Council President Otto Pfeifer said that council, at its regular meeting tonight, will not take any action on the report.

At the meeting of council on July 11, two emergency ordinances were given first readings to: enter into a contract for electrical energy to supplement the supply generated by the Galion plant for resale to its own consumers, and to construct a substation with a capacity of 3,000 KWH necessary because of the increased power load when supplementary energy would be brought into the city. These ordinances, by unanimous vote of council, were referred to the light committee. Recommendation of the ordinances was held up until a report was received from Burns and McDonnell, the Kansas City engineers.

For some time, now council has been faced with the critical problem of power shortage, and it has received mounting pressure from both laborers and manufacturers, to "hook up" with outside power to assure industry of adequate electric power to operate and expand Galion factories.

The demands have not been all one sided, however, as many civic-minded citizens have feared a hook-up program lest Galion lose its municipally owned plant in the process.

TRIBUNAL CONVICTS HITLER'S PHYSICIAN

By The Associated Press

NUERNBERG, Aug. 19 — An American war crimes tribunal today convicted Dr. Karl Brandt, Adolf Hitler's personal physician, of "full responsibility" in the performance of Nazi medical experiments on concentration camp victims.

The four-man court, headed by Judge Walter Beals of the Washington state supreme court, found the 43-year-old S. S. (Elite Guard) general guilty of crimes against humanity as charged by the prosecution, which had accused him of killing hundreds of thousands of human guinea pigs in "worthless" experiments.

Brandt was one of 23 co-defendants who made up the S. S. medical corps. His fate and that of his fellow defendants was outlined in a 300-page judgment.

Slot Machines At City Park Bring Exhibitor $134 Fine

Newton E. Shaffer, 40, of near Lima, arrested by city police Sunday at 7:54 p. m. at Garfield park, pleaded guilty when charged with exhibiting gambling devices and was fined $134.33 in municipal court yesterday afternoon.

Slot machines, a wheel of chance, juke box and several varieties of intoxicating liquor were seized Sunday evening by city police when they investigated a call to Garfield park, police said today.

The gambling devices were found when a neighbor called to report to police that the people staging the picnic were creating quite a disturbance.

Police investigated and arrested Shaffer, after he admitted furnishing the slot machines. He told police he had picked them up at a building just north of Marion city limits Sunday and took them to the park, displaying them in an open pick-up truck at the picnic.

Several of the group were ousted from the park when they were found creating a disturbance and police were stationed on the grounds to prevent further trouble.

The fine was placed at the exact amount found in the machines. They were confiscated and destroyed.

TAKES VACATION STROLL

56-Year-Old Walks from New York to Ohio for Holiday Junket.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 19—Tiny, 56-year-old Jess F. Hyde walked into Columbus yesterday — from Binghamton, N. Y.

Wacky about walking ever since World War I, Hyde made the 10-day stroll to visit a nephew, Jack Libertore.

Of course, it wasn't all heel-and-toeing. Kindly motorists carried Jess for 15 whole miles of the 500.

It's just a vacation junket, the frisky little New Yorker explained, not a record. He once walked from Binghamton to Cleveland and back, a distance of 800 miles.

Even though he does a steady four miles an hour, vacation time is proving short and so Jess disclaimed dispensation.

"I'll either have to take a train, ride a plane or have Jack drive me back."

MAN OVERCOME BY HEAT HERE

Workman Employed on Razing of Building Suffers Heat Exhaustion.

A prostration resulting from high temperatures occurred in Marion today when a worker was overcome by the heat.

Wilbur Spencer of Johnston, N. Y., who was working for the firm tearing down the building at State and East Center streets was taken at 11 a. m. in the L. A. Axe and Son ambulance to City hospital where he was found to be suffering from heat exhaustion.

Although another night of torrid temperature and high humidity is facing Marionites the eagey weatherman sees relief ahead. Just when the promised cooler weather finally gets to Marion is not definite in the forecasts. A slowly moving cold front is headed east from the Rockies bringing with it, a welcome change. Whether it will bring rain or not the forecaster has not made up his mind. However, he does say we should get some relief within 48 hours. But for tonight the prediction is for partly cloudy, quite warm and humid. Scattered thunder showers are on the schedule for Wednesday.

The Marion mercury rose to 84 at noon today, two points higher than yesterday at the same time. The maximum of 89 degrees yesterday was the highest this week. During the night the thermometer dropped to only 73. A year ago Marion enjoyed a high of 77 and a low of 62.

Housing Probe Nears Opening

Solons Return to Capitol To Launch $100,000 Inquiry.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Aug 19—A group of congress members trudged back to the Capitol today to start the ball rolling on a $100,000 housing investigation—and settle a who's to-be-boss squabble.

The choice of a chairman is a hot issue to be cleared away before the senate-house committee gets down to its assignment of finding out why homes are scarce, why they cost so much and what can be done about it.

The tussle over the chairmanship, according to a committee member is between veteran Senator Tooey (R-NH) and Senator McCarthy (R-Wis), a freshman in congress.

The Wisconsin first termer is one of the sponsors of the resolution authorizing the inquiry into the housing situation. Friends said he wants the chairmanship, but is even more interested in keeping it from Tobey.

But Tobey has the inside track because he is chairman of the senate banking committee, while McCarthy is at the end of the seniority list. The joint housing committee is made up of seven members each from the senate and house banking committees.

McCarthy and Tobey tangled frequently during the last session of congress. One issue on which they differed sharply was the Taft-Ellender-Wagner bill to set up a long range housing program.

The Wisconsin lawmaker called for an immediate start on the inquiry, saying "there has been too much delay already." He added that in his opinion subcommittees should be appointed to hold hearings in various sections of the country and to confer with leaders of construtcion union and representatives of building firms.

Under international agreement, the first letter in a radio station's call letters indicates the nationality of the station. The United States was allotted three—W, N and K.

Marion Featured In Current Issue Of OPS Magazine

Construction of the new C C. Roberts substation north of the city by the Ohio Public Service Co is featured in a leading article in the company publication "The Delta" for the month of August.

The article entitled "More Power for Marion," deals with the local phase of the five year construction program begun in 1946 which in addition to the new substation will include erection of a new high voltage line linking the Marion division with the high voltage transmission system at Ashland.

The article was written by Harold J. Grigsby, Marion Division manager and features several "shots" of local construction crews breaking ground for the new Marion substation, and clearing the right-of-way for the new transmission line which will tie in the local Scioto plant with the company's six other generating stations for the first time.

The new substation, it is said in the article, will be named in honor of C C Roberts who prior to his death in 1945 was president of the Marion Reserve company which became part of the OPS in 1946.

The new substation will step down line voltage from the 132,000 volts carried in the high voltage transmission lines to the 33,000 and 13,000 volts for distribution to the various parts of the city.

Mr Grigsby points out in his article that at the present "all the requirements of the Marion Division are met through power generated at the Scioto station. While ample power is generated there to meet present needs, the construction of the transmission line and erection of the C C. Roberts substation will provide more than double the available power in this area, and, equally as important, will assure continuous electric service even if some emergency trouble should occur in the present system."

Mr Grigsby added that the construction program here will be completed sometime in 1948.

New Skirt Fashion Kills Reason To Look Back

By HAL BOYLE
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK—A glance at Fifth Avenue style windows today discloses that women this fall will look pretty much like a horse collar trying to fight its way out of a barrel.

Hal Boyle

Skirts will be worn by them. All gentlemen of good will rejoice when greeting them by saying "I give a horse's neigh and so on.

Certainly there will be no reason to look back, except that is a long horse laugh.

Speaking merely as a mere male, I think women at last have gone too far. The wiseacres among them have always insisted proudly that they never dressed to please men but only to impress each other. This year they are really going to live up to that boast, and as a slogan for their new "wagonwheel hip" outline I suggest:

"All wool and a yard wide."

Signs of Revolt

There have been some signs of revolt among the ladies against the new fashions, but — by and large—they'll buy them and look large. But when the fashions change again, I'll bet my grandmother's best bombazine against a bobby pin that the girls will go back to looking more like Mother Eve and less like Queen Victoria.

What's so disturbing about the new fashions?

Well, for years the girls have looked like brandy glasses. Sometimes the padded shoulder effect was too, too Notre Dame, but — there was always a pleasant view of the stems.

Now they have turned the brandy glass upside down to achieve the effect of an underslung hour glass. The stems are skirt-hidden so far below the knee that a Pekinese would have to lie down to bite the hem. And the padding has come out of the shoulders and been restuffed around the hipline.

Social, Economic Hazard

This changed feminine contour will have melancholy economic and social hazards for the crowded world of today. It is only fair to point out a few:

First of all, it will provide the worst strain in history on male gallantry. Every time there is the rustle of a bustle in the subway two men—yes, two—will have to spring up to provide the lady adequate seating space.

Secondly, a man caught between two ladies in a jammed elevator will have the uneasy sensation of being suffocated by a double featherbed.

Thirdly, while dancing in night clubs men will have to fight down the idea they are involved in an unreal game of pushing around overstuffed chairs.

Fourthly, this contour will require interior harnessing of an armored stringency unfair to modern young women accustomed to the era of easy underclothing. The new pinching corsets achieve a super-small wasp waist by squeezing the diaphragm up into the tonsil zone. Fire departments may have to be called to get them out of these gadgets.

May Discourage Bachelors

Fifthly, there is the danger that the new fashions will discourage bachelors so badly they will give up all thoughts of matrimony.

"How will a man know what he is getting?" asked a realistic young friend of mine. "They've been wearing false chests for years. Now they're going to add false hips, choked-to-death waists, and dresses so long you can't tell wether a girl is bow-legged or even hear her knees knock."

I advised him the only sensible thing to do before proposing was to take the girl of his choice to a physician's office and stand her in front of an instrument there.

Why?

Because a girl dressed in the new style can fool some of the men all of the time, and all of the men some of the time—but she can't fool a good high-class fluroscope any of the time.

ULTIMATUM TO RUSS SEEN BY OHIO SOLON

SPRINGFIELD, O., Aug. 19 — An Ohio Republican congressman yesterday foresaw the time when "peace-loving nations" must issue an ultimatum to Russia, demanding cooperation.

In an address before the Springfield Rotary club, Rep. Clarence J. Brown of Blanchester asserted: "The time may be near when the peace-loving nations of the world must say to Russia: 'Either cooperate with the United Nations or get out.'"

The Blanchester Republican, national committeeman from Ohio, offered a three-point solution to present national and international ills:

▶Reduction of governmental costs;

▶Use of modern tools and methods, cutting production costs and improving mass production, and

▶Go back to work—"work hard, produce efficiently and well."

The greatest single problem confronting every individual today, said the congressman, is the prevention of a third world war.

He commented the peace today "seems to be eluding us" even as it did after the First World War.

This nation of 140,000,000 persons, he averred, cannot continue to finance the world. He singled out the British loan as an example and called on that nation "to forsake the primrose path of national socialism and return to the sound foundation of democracy."

The highest concentration of alcohol possible by ordinary distillation contains 100 per cent of water.

NOW SHE SHOPS "CASH AND CARRY"
Without Painful Backache

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 50 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

TECHNICOLOR FIRMS SUED AS MONOPOLIES

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19—Attorney General Clark, asserting a monopoly exists in the production of color motion pictures, announced Monday filing of an anti-trust suit to end "illegal arrangements and agreements."

Clark said a civil action is being filed in the U. S. district court at Los Angeles naming as defendants Technicolor Inc., Technicolor Motion Picture Corp., and Eastman Kodak Co.

Assistant Attorney General John F. Sonnett, in charge of the justice department's anti-trust division, said in a statement that Technicolor Inc., had "entered into a series of agreements with Eastman whereby patents, new developments and technological information relating to color photography would be reserved for technicolor's exclusive use in the professional field."

"In our view," Sonnett added, "Technicolor was thereby enabled to control and monopolize this business and was protected against potential competition from others.

"Our suit asks that all the illegal arrangements and agreements be cancelled and that the court order such relief with respect to patents and 'know-how' as will dissipate the effects of the unlawful practices charged and permit the establishment of free competition in the industry."

GIRL DROWNS AT LAKE
By International News Service

BELLEFONTAINE, Aug. 19—A verdict of accidental drowning was returned yesterday in the death of Miss Virginia Lee Ziegler, 23, of Chevoit, a Cincinnati suburb.

Coroner A. J. McCracken said a boat in which Miss Ziegler was riding in nearby Indian lake was overloaded. The victim and five companions were spilled into the lake Sunday evening when their boat capsized.

Michelangelo painted the frescoes in the Sistine Chapel a half-century after it had been completed in 1483 when Sixtus IV was Pope.

BRUCELLOSIS CALLED THREAT TO CATTLE

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, Aug. 19—Brucellosis is the greatest disease threat to the nation's cattle production, the annual convention of the American Veterinary Medical association was told today.

The AVMA's committee on diseases of food-producing animals, in a report submitted by Chairman Dr. L. R. Vawter of Reno, Nev., said it "stands out as the most important cattle disease in three respects:

"1 Increasing prevalence of the disease; (2) difficulty of control due to the fact that sound principles of herd management and sanitation must be combined with an intelligent vaccination program and (3) danger to the health of mankind."

The committee reported a steady increase in the number of cases in man, chiefly among packinghouse workers, male farm laborers and veterinarians

The committee also reported.

"Shipping fever," is "probably closely linked" to the pneumonia rate among cattle and hogs in packing centers"

Losses from calf scours and pneumonia continue excessively high, "to often due to 'makeshift' methods of housing and feeding calves"

Mastitis ranks as one of the biggest problems of the dairy industry

Several states have reported an increase in tuberculosis of cattle in the past year

YOUR HEALTH

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

Edema

When fluids which should be taken up by the kidneys and excreted, collect in the tissues, the patient is said to be suffering from edema. Edema may develop for various reasons, usually because of failure of an important organ to function properly. One cause is the failure of the heart to keep up the circulation properly. According to Dr. Robert H. McDonald, and his co-workers, of Cleveland, O., the most common form of edema is that due to heart failure, and this is the easiest form to treat.

First of all, in the treatment of edema due to heart failure, bed rest is necessary, but this should not be prolonged The patient with heart failure is nearly always more comfortable in a sitting or semi-sitting position The patient's position should be changed several times daily, and he usually may be permitted to sit in a chair from one to two hours each day.

The drug known as digitalis is employed in most instances, and it may be taken by mouth Of course the physician will have to decide just what doses of the drug should be employed and how it should be given.

Another form of treatment is the restricting of salt in the diet The simplest way of doing this is to avoid the use of salt in cooking and not to eat any salted meat, fish or bread. This will cut the salt intake by two-thirds By including the use of salt-free bread and butter, the salt intake may be reduced to about one-tenth of what is normally used. Such salt-free diets may be distasteful to the patient, in which instance certain salt substitutes may be employed.

An additional form of treatment is the use of a substance which stimulates the function of the kidney Such substances containing a mercury compound are best in most cases The substance may be given by injection into a muscle or vein Ammonium chloride and ammonium nitrate may be taken by mouth as well to stimulate kidney action They add to and increase the effect of the mercurial preparation

The patient is allowed to take as much water as he desires As long as the salt in the diet is restricted, this taking of water will not increase the edema.

Another cause of edema is chronic kidney inflammation. This form is treated by restricting the salt in the diet, giving plenty of protein-containing foods such as meat, milk and eggs, and stimulating kidney action with ammonium chloride. It is important in this case to make sure that the patient gets enough protein.

Edema may also be caused by a deficiency of protein in the diet, and disturbances of certain of the glands of internal secretion, and by certain liver disorders

Of course, in each instance, it is important to find the cause for the edema before treatment is carried out

Too Much or Too Little

SENATOR O'MAHONEY of Wyoming is discounting the findings of the Truman administration's search for profiteering, if any. He thinks it is looking for the wrong cause of high prices.

O'Mahoney, a member of the joint congressional committee on the economic report, which plans to investigate high prices too, believes the real cause of high prices isn't profiteering but under-production. This is where the plot begins to thicken.

The senator from Wyoming once headed an investigation of concentration of economic power in this country. He has no kind words for big business. In the present instance, he feels sure the biggies have their heads together for the purpose of rationing output according to prewar ratios. He believes there is behind-the-scenes collusion to deal with the problem of under-production that has been created by over-consumption in a rational manner; i.e. rational from the producers' standpoint.

What we have now is the reverse of the situation when the Roosevelt administration was encouraging planned scarcity because production had outstripped demand and caused a collapse of prices. This time demand has outstripped production and caused prices to inflate.

Some said during the depression, of course, that over-production wasn't really the trouble at all, that under-consumption was the trouble. If they seemed then to be begging the question, they would be begging it now to say that the trouble isn't under-production but over-consumption. But the apparent truth of the matter is that prices could be brought down in 1947 if consumers refrained from buying, just as the apparent truth of the matter in 1937 was that prices could be forced up if consumers didn't refrain from buying—and for a time in 1937, it's recalled, there was a spurt of recovery when that very thing happened.

Perhaps present rates of consumption will become stabilized. Perhaps they will decline. Producers accused of distributing output to make the most of under-production, instead of trying to achieve a net increase in capacity, obviously think present rates are abnormally high. This is an offense, in Senator O'Mahoney's eyes. But even the senator must remember that a few years ago producers were cursed by politicians for producing too much—and the whipping boys freed the lash.

Following the Leader

CEASE-AND-DESIST action by the federal trade commission against members of the steel industry charged with conspiracy to fix prices and stifle competition will keep a lot of lawyers busy for a great many years.

It probably won't do much else. A cease-and-desist action begun in 1924 against the industry's Pittsburgh-plus pricing formula is still in the courts. Conspiracy to fix prices is a hard thing to prove.

But consumers, aside from whatever may be proved or disproved about something that looks like a pricing collusion in the steel industry, are curious about game of following the leader by common consent. Collusion is too strong a word. It is, rather, something that has the appearance of collusion.

In any case, the consuming public wonders why, in an economy supposedly geared to the spirit of free enterprise so many prices seem to be fixed by circumstances that can't possibly be called free enterprise. Coal, milk, textiles, automobiles, houses and dozens of other things produced under various conditions have a disturbing tendency to bear the same price for no better reason than the fact it's the price someone else happens to be charging.

Is it a habit that free enterprise has carried over from government price-fixing? Is it a right and proper thing for free enterprise to be doing, if it wants to enjoy the privileges of freedom? Is it satisfactory to consumers whose purchasing power by no means behaves automatically; rising so many percentage points because the purchasing power of consumers sowewhere else rose by so many percentage points?

While FCT is looking for evidence of collusion to fix prices in the steel industry, millions of citizens will keep looking at circumstantial evidence of collusion in a lot of other places.

The Betting Problem

A QUEENS county grand jury in New York City has come forward with a proposal to legalize off-track betting on horse races. Looking into illegal betting in New York, the jurors were appalled at what they found—evidence of large-scale police corruption, impaired department morale and an estimated $6,300,000 bet daily with bookmakers. Legislation already has been drafted to legalize off-track betting in New York State as the result of the jury's findings.

Formidable arguments can be marshalled for and against legalized off-track betting. In New York it may even come down to a choice of abolishing betting at tracks or legalizing it away from them. The whole complex problem, fraught as it is with many moral and legal implications, appears due for a thorough airing in New York.

Communism Is Nationalism

By RAYMOND MOLEY

Marxist Economics Not Up to World Needs.

THE liveliest and most exciting hope for those who are willing to anticipate an alternative to a chaotic and ruined world is that Communism, in the nature of things, cannot survive. A war is no way to prove this principle. A better way is to meet the threat of Communism with the facts of economic life and to prove its incapacity in the very countries it has chosen to dominate. This basic and unanswerable principle should be the underlying, the least discussed and the strongest hope behind the Marshall plan.

The first and superficial expectation for the Marshall plan is that it will revive Western Europe—with the full acceptance of the idea that Europe will be divided into two parts. That is the goal we are moving toward, and undoubtedly it is the goal congress, backed by American opinion, will spend money to attain. We believe that, with American help and the energetic help of the countries concerned, the western nations of Europe can restore their production of goods and begin, once more, the exchange of those goods for mutual benefit. The very survival of Britain and the rescue of France and Italy from Communistic chaos depends upon European production. The world can move forward, even with this half-victory.

But a broader victory may follow. Communism, as embodied in Russian policy, has proclaimed loudly that it is an international system. All its slogans have contained international implications and expressions. But as an economic and social way of life, Communism is not international at all. It is national, isolationist, sterile and out of line with modern civilization. It cannot exist in a world order, except in so far as it compromises its principles. Left to itself, Communism will help its people only in a country as vast as Russia. Transplanted, it is bound to fail.

For it is based on the principle that the devices of international capitalism which permit the flow of goods over the world are obsolete, outdated and destined to die. The Communist alternative is dictatorship on national lines, barter and political domination of each economy. But barter is a one-way street. It is unproductive, stiff and wholly incapable of raising living standards generally.

An exceedingly thoughtful article in a recent number of London Economist illustrates how poorly Communism is already working in the satellites behind the iron curtain. In 1946, Czechoslovakia's trade with the western nations, now included in the Marshall plan, was five times as great as her trade with Russia. Poland and Finland likewise traded vigorously with the West. The foreign trade of Hungary with Russia, while under the domination of Russian occupation, was less than half of its total. The iron curtain was, even in a year like 1946, more like an iron fence with wide gates open to the West.

A "Bust" Internationally

Perhaps it was this failure of Communism to provide the means of international exchange that turned Russian policy, in the years after the end of Trotskyism, to an attempt to make Communism succeed in one country alone as an example to other nations. Communism may succeed measurably in Russia alone, but as an international system, it is a bust. Capitalism, despite its defects, is still the best hope for a prosperous world.

Savings Decline

The rate at which the nation's savings accounts are declining is apparent from the report of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, which sets the present figure at 11.6 billions. In 1946 it was 14.8 billions and in 1944 it was at a high of 35.6 billions. The 1940 figure was 3.7 billions, the 1935-39 average, 3 billions.

Just a Minute

By JACK TARVER

Marriage by Prescription Only?

An Atlanta couple was recently married in a drug store, the ceremony being performed just in front of the soda fountain.

The bride was attired in the convention white, one supposes, and carried a banana split.

A beautiful sight she must have been, too, there in the warm glow of the lights on the pinball machine.

The groom is a soda-jerk and, had he but thought of it in time, doubtless could have gotten a fellow artist to play "Here Comes the Bride" on the carbonated-water faucet.

Incidentally, one knew the modern drug store sold everything from andirons to zithers. But who thought ever to see them dispensing matrimony?

Still, having taken the bulk of the stamp business away from the postoffice, perhaps it was only natural that they should now go into competition with the church.

Times Do Change

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

"LAND of The Soviets" was published by the Webster Publishing company and widely distributed during the war. With some difficulty, I obtained a copy. W. P. Johnson, president of the Webster Publishing company, wrote me:

"'Land of The Soviets' is out of date. It was written in 1942 when our attitude toward Russia was that of a friendly ally, and it should be reviewed, if reviewed at all, with that point of view in mind."

Of course, I cannot view a book from the standpoint that it was published in 1942 or in 1492. Its contents are either true or false. Apparently, Mr. Johnson's warning to me is based on the assumption that there are things in the book which, in 1947, are incorrect and untrue but which somebody wanted to have said in 1942, whether true or false.

Recently, somebody criticized me because I did not see the world through tinted glasses. That is in line with Mr. Johnson's word of caution. For instance, the book opens with this paragraph:

"Although few Americans realize it, the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics is one of our closest neighbors — closer to American territory than the island of Cuba or the city of Montreal. Less than five miles of water in the Bering straight separates the Little Diomede, owned by the United States, from the Big Diomede island, a part of the Soviet Union."

This is literally true but wholly distorted because whereas the Little Diomede island is American territory, its geographical, political, population, economic and cultural measurements give it no consideration whatsoever. Did you ever hear of the little Diomede island before? But you have heard of Washington, New York, Philadelphia, Hollywood and lots of other American cities. In fact, Cuba is more American than that Little Diomede island.

Then I came across this paragraph:

"Because these Soviets were the organ which represented the people most widely at that time, they grew rapidly in influence and respect during the troubled months of 1917 until, on Nov. 7, they became the government."

This is a lie. I was in Russia throughout those months in 1917-18 and at the constituent assembly in Petrograd when the Bolsheviks finally made themselves the government of Russia by abolishing all other parties. At the time, the party of Lenin reprpesented less than two percent of the representatives of the Russian people. When they walked out of the constituent assembly, they were so few that their empty seats were hardly noticeable.

The people of Russia had nothing to do with this seizure of power. It was done by a small minority by force. It was an act of revolution by a small, armed party.

The question that arises is, why did anyone think it important in 1942 to tell our soldiers what was untrue then, was untrue in 1917 and is untrue today in 1947? Was it necessary to misinform our troops to get them to fight? For instance, there is a picture of the Dneiper dam in this book with lots of talk about how wonderful it all is, but not one word that it was built under the direction of an American engineer, Hugh Cooper. Would it not have made our boys proud of their country and their countrymen to tell them that?

The entire pamphlet, which was written by Marguerite Ann Stewart and edited by Maxwell S. Stewart and published with the cooperation of the American council, institute of Pacific relations, justifies Mr. Johnson's caution to me not, in 1947, to take it as seriously as I should have in 1942. But it was distributed among American troops. It was part of the orientation material that was being used to inform them what they were fighting for.

It is this "comparative" approach to truth that has so desperately complicated the problems of our people. They have been fed the pabulum of war propaganda and while a publisher can withdraw an outdated book from the market and caution a writer that 1947 is not 1942, the stuff that went into the minds of our boys and girls continues to confuse and betray them. It may have been propaganda but it was not the truth.

One Man's Opinion

By WALTER KIERNAN

Democrats are reported interested in a tune called "Have a Heart Taft-Hartley Have a Heart" . . . This has interesting possibilities.

* * *

I hear Taft is getting up a violin part for "I Think I'm Cuter than Walter Reuther" and Hartley is working on "Nobody Knows the Trouble I've Seen With the AFL's Old Bill Green."

* * *

But it may well be that the next campaign will be fought out by the Andrews sisters and the five De Marcos . . . Of course, the Democrats will have the advantage with a piano player on the ticket.

* * *

Still it must not be forgotten that Dewey was a concert singer; even the Democrats give him that. I heard a Democrat say publicly "As a president, Tom would make a good concert singer."

* * *

Of course, the Republican objection to Truman is that he'd rather be President than pianissimo.

* * *

My man for president is Johnny Meyer . . . But he won't go to Washington unless he is subpoenaed.

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Thursday, Aug. 19, 1937.

John R. Severns of 155 Brenner court and Sherman Baker of 238 East Washington street were injured when a tank filled with gas fumes exploded at the Osgood Co. plant.

Lester A. Price, 17, of Caledonia was taken to the City hospital suffering from a gun shot wound sustained when a rifle discharged as he was cleaning it.

A heat wave sent the mercury above the 90-degree mark for the third successive day.

A large barn on the Scott Howison farm at the north limits of Waldo was destroyed by fire of unknown origin.

The Marion entry in the Ohio State league, in second place six games behind Mansfield, started a road trip that was to take the locals against the loop leaders and fifth place Fremont.

Dr. Albert E. Bixler, 45, a veterinarian and Wyandot county sanitarian, died of injuries suffered in an automobile accident near Kirby. Harold Swinehart, 25, Wyandot county farmer, was in a Kenton hospital seriously injured in the same accident.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

It was Friday, Aug. 19, 1927.

Nicola Sacco and Bartholomew Vanzetti lost their fight to escape the electric chair for a double murder in a payroll holdup when the Massachusetts supreme court turned down their appeal.

Dr. and Mrs. E. K Clark and daughters Mary and Mildred returned from a week's motor trip through Missouri and other midwest points.

Announcement of the marriage of Miss Mildred Burnside of Marion and C. Warren Kleinfelter of New York City, to take place Sept. 14, was made at a party given by Miss Burnside's mother, Mrs. C. S. France Has Chosen

By JOSEPH and STEWART ALSOP

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19—In the past months, a very great event has been taking shape, inconspicuously, almost intangibly, yet decisively. If one can depend upon official Washington's best judgment, France has been making her choice at last. The makers of French policy are no longer seeking fruitlessly to "mediate" in the world-embracing contest between the Western and Soviet systems. Instead, with courage, France has chosen the West.

This may sound grandiloquent and vague. On the contrary, however, it actually promises the most solid progress in several vital directions. For example, the outline of a solution of the German problem (which had so long seemed literally insoluble) now seems to be emerging.

Such developments are not completed overnight, and there is still a marked difference between the British and Americans on the one hand, and the French on the other, on the question of timing. At the Anglo-Franco-American conference on the German level of industry, the British and Americans will press for immediate decisions permitting the reconstruction of the German economy on a modestly healthy basis. The British and American zones are by far the most populous, and contain the greatest concentration of German industry. Even a few months of delay will mean leaving Germany for another year what it is today—a vast, poison-breeding slum in the midst of Europe.

Expect Another Failure

The French, on the other hand, are understood to wish to defer decisions until the November meeting of the foreign ministers in London. Then, being sensible men, their policy-makers anticipate another failure to agree as complete as the failure in Moscow. This, it is further understood, will give them, in the eyes of France and the world, a starting point from which they can set a new course. The French zone of Germany will then, if all goes well, be merged with the Anglo-American zone. And thus, in turn, the Ruhr problem, which is the heart of the German problem in France's eyes, will at last become soluble.

Long since, French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault proposed management of the Ruhr by an international consortium. The Americans are now pressing the British to confide the Ruhr (which is of course in the British zone) to an inter-zonal directorate. If the French zone is joined to the Anglo-American zone, the French will be represented on the inter-zonal directorate, and the international consortium will thus, automatically, come into being. Bidault has also pressed, very wisely, for integration of the Ruhr resources into a plan for the European economy. This will be accomplished within the framework of the Marshall plan.

This is, of course, looking very far into the future. There are quite obviously two possible ways in which the present trend can be reversed. The first is the least likely.

It Would Be Remarkable

It is the possibility that Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov may arrive at the November conference with his briefcase bulging with really important concessions to the French viewpoint on Germany. This would be a remarkable about turn. In Moscow, Bidault was treated by the Soviet negotiators with a contempt which they did not trouble to conceal. Yet the Soviets have made about turns before, when in their view practical considerations demanded them. And there have been vague hints that such a reversal is actually being considered in the Kremlin.

The second possibility is that the representatives of this country might revert to their former myopic method of dealing with France's German interests.

To the French, this method has been utterly incomprehensible. To an American, familiar with the vagaries of our government, nothing has been easier to understand. Until Secretary Marshall moved into the state department, American policy was the sum of what was being done in a series of little semi-independent empires. One such was Germany. Those in control of American policy in Germany were brilliantly able men. It would be difficult to find a finer, more devoted, or more capable public servant than General Lucius D. Clay. But General Clay, and the others directly concerned with Germany, were not concerned with anything else. Therefore, they quite naturally wished to enforce the simplest possible solutions of the German problem, as promptly as possible and without regard to anything else.

Of Major Importance

France's interests were opposed to these solutions, and friction was inevitable. The last manifestation of this sort of attempt to make policy for Germany alone occurred when Secretary Marshal forbade announcement of a rise in the German level of industry only 24 hours before it was to be made. This past record makes it all the more necessary that the French views should be sympathetically considered at the forthcoming London talks. If there is an honest meeting of minds, the French can surely be relied upon to approve those steps in Germany which are economically essential to take at once.

The whole matter of course vastly transcends in importance the immediate future of Germany alone. For unless there is a firm agreement between the French, the British, and the United States on the German problem, the Marshall plan cannot succeed. And the consequences of failure of the Marshall plan are not pleasant to contemplate.

Pitching Horseshoes

By BILLY ROSE

HOW would you like to make a million dollars? How would you like to win the right to carry a cane with a gold knob, and get to speak at Kiwanis luncheons? How would you like to have Don Ameche to portray you in a movie biography?

If this kind of life appeals to you, here's what to do. Join the new foundation I'm setting up. It's the F.F.I.S.P.N.A.B.—Foundation For Inventing Stuff People Need Awfully Bad. Do I need to be saying you're not an inventor? Balderdash! Every red-blooded American is. Didn't you once change a washer in the kitchen sink? Didn't you once replace a burned-out fuse? Well, how much more complicated do you think radar is?

Take it from a fellow who for years has been making something out of practically nothing, you can invent! All you need is a screwball idea and a faraway look in your eye.

Now that you're an inventor—and a member of the Foundation—your natural question is "What do I invent?" Well, that's what this piece is about.

If I were you I wouldn't bother about gadgets that shoot around corners, or bombs to blow the Smiths and Joneses to smithereens and peace to ereens. There are too many fellows working on that already. Your best chance to win the jackpot and make the million is to come up with something nobody is doing anything about.

Like the Permanent Permanent Wave, the Once-Over-Forever Shave, the Unloseable Collar Button. Invent any one of these, and a rubber band won't be big enough for your bank roll—you'll need an inner tube. Of course, these are rather mundane. If you prefer something a little more artistic, focus your energies on this problem: Nobody likes to come into the movies in the middle of a picture. Devise a gadget so that no matter what time you walk in, the feature is at the beginning.

AND when you've done that, figure out a way to make the feature good.

You might use a smidgen of your talent to modernize the automobile. What good is a 10 mile an hour glass-and-chromium dream wagon when the jalopy ahead won't go over 20? What the 1947 model needs is a Hurdle Pedal—something you step on which makes your car jump like a frog with a hotfoot and drop down another of the jalopy. Show Detroit how to do that and you'll have more cabbage than Dinty Moore has corned beef.

Or how about an Eraser Key for typewriters? It's time somebody made something for stenographers besides passes.

If your first experiments blow up in your face don't get discouraged and resign from the Foundation. Never forget Edison was going on 15 when he applied for his first patent. Einstein was all of 26 before he announced his Theory of Relativity. It takes perseverance! If the Perpetual Permanent Permanent eludes you, I'd suggest you go to work on Non-Intoxicating Whiskey, Unmissable Railway Trains, or Educated Socks which will walk themselves out from under the bed right into the laundry hamper.

In your spare time, you might revolutionize the restaurant business by inventing some new food combinations: Clam chowder with clams, a fresh fruit drink with fruit, and chicken chow mein with chicken.

Of course none of these inventions will interest you if you happen to be one of those objectionable young men who think this might conceivably be a better world. Well, I've got a little chore for those members too. Instead of the Frightening Firecracker which will claim civilization, try to work out a civilization which will eliminate the Firecracker.

Come up with that one and I'll get you ten weeks in vaudeville.

Cotton Corners

By TRUMAN TWILL

Dear Nephew: Hot weather taking away your appetite? Does food bore you? How long has it been since you had a bang-up meal, fit for a grown man?

Sight unseen, I'll give you 10 to 1 you've been doing what millions of others have been doing—skimping on your meals. You have cut down on your breakfast, cut down on your lunch and your missus has cut down on your supper. Also sight unseen, I'll give you 100 to 1 you're all in and about ready to call the game on account of exhaustion.

In other words, my young relative, you are another victim of the food faddists in this country. They have built up a big following, especially among women, preaching their nonsense especially about what not to eat in hot weather. Unless we are careful, the faddists and the women will kill us all with a diet of cucumber iced tea and unpalatable sandwiches; i. e., sandwiches without any beef in them. Even your aunt has crazy spells about green vegetables.

I am a kind of food faddist myself, on the side of getting enough to eat. If proper nourishment is a fad, I admit the charge. For breakfast this morning I had half a dozen strips of bacon, two eggs, four pieces of toast, two cups of coffee, a slab of blueberry pie and a wedge of cheese. On the toast I had a good thick lather of sweet butter and a thick application of strawberry sunshine. This helped me survive the hot weather till lunch.

For lunch your aunt and I had a platter of sandwiches—about four apiece, full size, with meat in them—plenty of chilled milk and fresh blackberries with thick cream and lots of sugar. In the middle of the afternoon we took aboard a couple more sandwiches to tide us over to supper, because we intended to wait until the sun had gone down so we could eat outside with the Randolphs who had promised to come up and spend the evening. We had thick beefsteak and potatoes fixed that yummy way your aunt specializes in, with grated cheese and onions, cinnamon rolls, more strawberry sunshine, new green beans, and angel food cake and ice cream for dessert.

One of the reasons we used to get along better in this country was because almost everyone believed in getting plenty to eat, also plenty of sleep. The reason we've been snappish and unreasonable the last few decades is because too many people think they are too busy or have something to eat properly. On top of that they aren't getting enough rest. People with half-empty bellies and half-open eyes are in no condition to deal with the problems of existence. In their deplorable condition, all problems seem twice as tough as they are, and they're tough enough without adding anything to them.

My advice to you, nephew, is to get up early tomorrow morning, eat a hearty breakfast, likewise for lunch and supper and see if you do not feel better. Don't pay attention to the dietary faddists who advise you to starve yourself when you need your strength most—in hot weather. Those fools would kill you if they dared. Luckily they've no compunctions about letting you starve. Give our best regards to your family, especially that boy. If you want to see what proper feeding can do for a human being, look what we did for him in a little less than two months of sensible stuffing.

Vacation Layoffs Hike Jobless Pay Claims

By The United Press

COLUMBUS, Aug. 19—A substantial increase in initial claims for unemployment compensation last month was attributed today by bureau of unemployment compensation Administrator Frank J. Collopy to vacation layoffs by Ohio manufacturers.

July's 47,568 claims was one and a half times the June volume and represented the largest total since January, Collopy said.

However, the amount of unemployment benefits paid last month were up only one-eighth to $784,740 over the June total since the July layoffs were mostly temporary, he said.

One-half of the 44,000 persons drawing weekly benefits in Ohio last month were veterans. The BUC administrator acts as agent for the veterans administration in the payment of readjustment allowances to Ohio veterans.

Historic Events Recalled by Old Copy of The Star

The Turkish peace delegate were bent on scaring off the Armenian delegation at The Hague, bicycle manufacturers in New York City were organizing a gigantic wheel trust, and a strike at the Cleveland Electric company's plant was in progress when The Marion Daily Star went to press, Friday, June 23, 1899. The well preserved copy was brought to the star office by R. L. Everett of 329 Windsor street.

Locally the Mallable Iron Co.'s employes were preceding their big excursion to the "lake" on the following day with a big bicycle parade and band concert, a lawn fete was held at the home of Philip Schweinfurth of North State street and St. Mary's alumni association held its first banquet which was a "notable success."

At Upper Sandusky the citizens were planning a huge July 4th celebration with a great open air spectacular reproduction of the capture and burning of Col. Crawford by the Indians as a highlight. L. O. Bowlus & Co. advertised 100 pairs of oxfords to close out at 39 cents a pair, and the Grand Opera House was calling attention to the appearance on the following Sunday evening of the Decca Operatic company with Mme. Marie Decca the famous American Prima Donna soprano.

In the local sporting world the Wells Fargo team and Flax Krauter's Whirlwinds battled it out to a finish on the Expressmen's baseball grounds at the rear of the tool factory. The score was 27 to 23 in favor of the Expressmen. "The game was one of scrapping, argument and disputing the umpire's decisions and the rule book and both captains were very much in evidence at all times," the account stated. Batteries were King, Hogan and Rarmer for the Whirlwinds and Stokes and Fenton for the Expressmen.

PRINTERS ASK LABOR PEACE CONFERENCE

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 19 — Commercial printing establishments offered today to call a peace conference when the Taft-Hartley labor act becomes law Friday, in an effort to keep union-management relations harmonious in the newspapers and print shops of the nation.

The law was regarded by the 89th convention of the AFL-International Typographical Union as a challenge of the organization's closed shop agreements in commercial and newspaper plants across the U. S

President Woodruff Randolph of the ITU advised union members in advance of the 89th convention to make no more contracts with their employers, and to press instead for unwritten agreements on wages and working agreements.

Carl A. Dunnagan, head of the union employer section of the printing industry of America, offered to meet with the union representatives, and ITU President Randolph accepted the invitation

The Taft-Hartley law becomes effective Friday. The ITU has taken the initiative among old-line unions in making policy to meet the restrictions imposed by the new statute. Chief among these limitations is a ban on the closed shop, which the printers have enjoyed in contractual relations with a large percentage of newspapers and commercial printeries for the past 100 years

Dog Left by California-Bound Group Dies of Heartbreak.

By The Associated Press

MANSFIELD, O., Aug. 19—"Troubles" can't go on to California Mayor Roy W Vaughn received a letter from Mrs Martha Oates of Baldwin, Calif., asking him to help locate "Troubles," a seven-year-old female dog of unstated breed. Mrs. Oates said she and her family were driving through here, July 23, when the dog became sick and was taken to a veterinarian.

They were going to a new place to live and things were uncertain, Mrs Oates said, so they took the veterinarian's advice and left "Troubles" at Angell's refuge, a pet home here.

"But now," Mrs Oates wrote, "my small son and my aged father are grieving for her We would like to have 'Troubles' sent here to make an old man and a child happy."

But Miss Helen Workman, who with her sister Florence operates the pet home, could only report of "Troubles".

"She was the faithful kind and died of a broken heart two weeks after Mrs Oates left her She wouldn't drink or eat a thing"

MARSHALL TO GIVE MAJOR POLICY TALK

By The Associated Press

QUITANDINHA, BRAZIL, Aug. 19—Secretary of State George C. Marshall will deliver a major policy address tomorrow to the inter-American conference of foreign ministers. In it he is expected to spell out U S views on questions facing delegates summoned to craft a hemisphere defense treaty.

The biggest question involved thus far is Cuba's demand for a clause to bar "economic aggression" as well as military attacks.

Marshall's speech is scheduled to follow the arrival of Senora Eva Duarte Peron, wife of Argentina's president.

A member of the United States delegation said that Secretary Marshall had not yet received invitations to any of the functions scheduled to honor Senora Peron.

Marshall took advantage of a conference lull today to confer with Foreign Minister Juan A. Bramuglia of Argentina. He held a similar conference yesterday with Foreign Minister Jaime Torres Bodet of Mexico.

The only conference business scheduled for today was a meeting of the committee on aggression.

Marshall's speech tomorrow is expected to give the official U. S. reaction to the formal demand submitted by Cuba yesterday for a treaty clause against "economic aggression."

TRUMAN SHIFTS 3 TOP LEVEL AIDES

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Aug 19 — President Truman today announced a shift in three top level administration assignments designed to speed up federal action on the European displaced persons problem.

Ugo Carusi now commissioner of immigration and naturalization, was appointed a special assistant in the state department to take full charge of a survey of all phases of the displaced persons problem including resettlement.

The shift involves the resignation of Watson B Miller as federal security administrator and his appointment as commissioner of naturalization and immigration to succeed Carusi.

Mr Truman named Oscar Ross Ewing, former assistant chairman of the Democratic national committee, to replace Miller as federal security administrator.

Carusi will be special assistant to the new assistant secretary of state, Charles E Saltzman.

Ross told reporters:

"One of the important aspects in Mr Carusi's new position will be to make a complete survey of all phases of the displaced persons problem, including the resettlement of the displaced persons and the administration of President Truman's directive of Dec 22, 1945.

"He also will study the operations of the newly-formed international refugee organization, spending considerable time in Europe and South America."

BUBBLE TROUBLE.

By The United Press

HOUSTON, Tex — Houston children went around with long faces when they heard that 3,000 pounds of their favorite bubble gum was aboard a ship bound for Antwerp, Belgium. Parents, however, breathed a sigh of relief.

EMBARRASSING! The cameraman caught Thomas F Walsh Jr in a rather embarrassing position, when the youngster's trunks suddenly dropped to half mast while bathing at a Boston beach. Tommy's hurt expression indicates that he isn't pleased with the intrusion.

WEATHER

with possible crop-reviving general rains.

"It's too early yet to say just how this cold push will act or how much rain it will bring," the Chicago weather bureau said, adding that a decided relief from the high 90 and 100 degree temperatures appeared a certainty for most of the plain states within 48 hours.

The forecast said the cold air crossed into Montana and Idaho from Canada about midnight and that it was expected to spread into the Dakotas by tonight, and into Minnesota and Nebraska by tomorrow.

Within 48 hours, he added, the whole Great Lakes region should have temperatures at least 15 degreees under today's continued high readings.

The accompanying rain, the bureau said, might turn out to be only scattered showers but it might also—just possibly—be a general drought breaker for a considerable section of the north-central and northern plains states.

Meanwhile, no relief was in sight for virtually all the remainder of the nation, sweltering again from a recurring hot blast that has spared generally only the Atlantic and Pacific coast states.

Throughout most of the region from the Appalachian to the Rocky Mountains, temperatures in the 90's or above appeared certain to be repeated today and tomorrow, the weather bureau said.

Society Microfilming, Preserving Ohio Papers

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O, Aug 19—The Ohio State Archaeological and Historical society is microfilming Ohio newspapers to insure their preservation as highly important historic records.

The process boils down an entire month's output of news into a package that fits in the palm of your hand.

Director Erwin C Zepp reported that the microfilming program is putting Ohio newspapers on film for future historians at the rate of a page per second.

More than 320,000 pages have been recorded by special cameras on 35 millimeter microfilm since the beginning of the project in February and more than five miles of film have been used to date.

Microfilming reduces an entire newspaper page to 1 inch by 1¾ inches. Nearly 1,200 pages can be recorded on one 100 foot roll of film.

Bricker's Assailant May Undergo Brain Surgery

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Aug 19—William L. Kaiser, the former capitol police officer charged with firing two shots at Senator Bricker (R-Ohio), may undergo an operation for a serious mental disorder.

Kaiser was adjudged insane by a federal court jury yesterday after Dr. Amino Perretti testified that the 49-year-old former officer is suffering from an organic brain disease. The psychiatrist said surgery may be required.

Justice Richmond B. Keech, who presided at the lunacy hearing, ordered Kaiser committed to a mental hospital.

No one was injured in the July 12 shooting in the senate subway.

FAILURE, ERROR CAUSED CRASH

Pacific Accident Laid to Human Mistakes, Mechanical Defects.

By The Associated Press

HONOLULU, Aug. 19—The Pacific plane crash which left five known and five presumed dead, including Ambassador George Atcheson Jr., was described by airmen here today as a tragic accident caused by a combination of human error and mechanical failure.

Who, if anyone, is to blame will be decided officially in an immediate investigation ordered by Gen Carl Spaatz, Army Air Forces commander.

The converted B-17 bomber left Tokyo last Friday. It landed at Guam and ground crews there removed a faulty engine, replacing it with another. The pilot Capt K R. Still, continued across 1,200 miles of ocean to Kwajalein, in the Marshall Islands. It was a comparatively short hop, and there was plenty of gasoline left when the plane landed there, the navigator, Capt. T. L. Rider, reported.

The plane took off from Kwajalein Saturday after refueling—carrying a total of 3,190 gallons of gasoline, sufficient for more than 15 hours flight, Rider said.

Ships Refueling Stop

Captain Still did not stop at Little Johnston island, 715 miles southwest of Oahu. He radioed the Johnston tower that he had enough fuel left for eight hours flight—which would have been more than ample to reach Honolulu's Hickam field.

Then things began to go wrong. Rider said the new engine seemed to be eating too much gasoline and the pilot, he related, believed his gasoline gauges must be wrong.

As midnight neared, the pilot asked the Oahu radio control center for a fix on his position. He reported he was 25 minutes out, and had only 20 minutes' fuel.

3 Engines Quit

The new engine went out shortly said Rider. Then another engine quit, and finally a third, while the plane lost altitude rapidly.

Rider was one of the three who escaped.

In Tokyo the Army announced the following home addresses and next of kin of those aboard the B-17 which crashed with a toll of five dead and five presumed dead — including Ambassador George Atcheson Jr.:

KILLED:

Col Carl A. Russell, Richmond Heights, Mo.

Col. David Lurr, Watertown, N Y, dependents in Tokyo.

Navy Capt. Randolph B Boyer, Portsmouth, Va, dependents in Tokyo.

Staff Sgt Ira C Harrison, father, E Jo Harrison, Woodburn, Orr.

Tech Sgt Otto F McKee, wife, Dorothy McKee, St Petersburg, Fla.

MISSING, but not listed officially as dead:

Ambassador Atcheson, father, Dr George Atcheson, Denver, Colo, wife in Tokyo.

Capt. Kenneth R Still, pilot, wife, Marie C. Still, Youngstown.

Capt. Cecil M Sigmon, copilot, mother Mrs Myrtle Sigmon, Lincolnton, N C.

First Lt Virgil E Carley, copilot, wife, Mrs. Reda Nae Carley Jefferson, Ia.

Tech Sgt Lawrence J Voneshi wife, Lorene, Chicago, Ill, wife in the United States.

SURVIVORS:

Col Harvey P Hughlin, Fairfield, Ia, defendants in Tokyo.

Capt. Thomas L Rider, navigator, c/oCharles D. Hull, Ponca City, Okla.

Cpl Travis J Holland; mother, Mrs Leona E Holland, Akron.

Crooner Perry Como Seeks Fight; No Sale

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO Aug 19 — Crooner Perry Como was in the midst of one of his best renditions of "Dream, Dream, Dream," when a wag in the Chicago theater socked him on the head with a piece of hard candy.

For that, Como was willing to treat the patrons to an unscheduled performance. He called for the house lights and invited the person and all his friends" to a showdown on the stage but there were no takers and the singer resumed his program.

In his next appearance, Como had a sizeable lump on his head.

CIO

Taft-Hartley labor law which goes into full effect Friday.

In the case of the CIO, one member of the executive board is a self-avowed Communist. He is Ben Gold of New York, president of the United Fur and Leather Workers union.

Denham, reminded of this by reporters, said only, "the alternatives, if there are any, are obvious."

As for the AFL, there have been reports that John L. Lewis, although a vigorous anti-Communist, might withhold his affidavit as a matter of principle. As president of the United Mine Workers and an AFL vice president, Lewis is a link in the AFL chain.

Although several of the larger CIO unions have indicated they plan to snub the reorganized NLRB, many of the others have reached no policy decision on this issue or on the Taft-Hartley act itself. There are 10 CIO unions.

Mercy Killings, Divorce, Arms Training Flayed

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Aug. 19—The National Catholic Women's union has adopted resolutions condemning "mercy killings," peacetime military conscription, and the evils of divorce."

"Mercy killings not only should not be legalized, but judges who free those who are guilty should be publicly censured," said the resolution approved by the organization at its meeting yesterday.

With respect to divorce, the organization held that "if separation must take place, let it be done by consulting the proper church authorities, and let such separated couples refrain from legal divorce and become attuned to their lot to live a single life."

The Roman Catholic group proposed that military drills be added to high school and college curricula and endorsed the measure pending in congress to admit 400,000 displaced persons a year into the United States from Europe.

Portsmouth Doctors Add to Murder Reward

By The Associated Press

PORTSMOUTH, O, Aug 19—Scioto county physicians started a campaign today to raise $5,000 to increase the reward fund and help in the investigation of the slaying Aug 1 of their colleague, Dr. George E Obrist.

Police Chief Ray Brown, Sheriff Earl Brandel, and assistant County Prosecutor William Weidner said they welcomed the offer. Dr Obrist was shot from ambush as he walked from his garage to the back door of his home at night

"We're still following numerous leads and have not let up in our investigation," Brown said "But so far we are unable to determine a motive We have eliminated many possibilities, thus narrowing the inquiry, but we still have no tangible clue"

Nine Indicted For Gambling

Village Mayor and Police Chief Among Those Charged with Running Lottery.

By The Associated Press

AKRON, O., Aug 19—Nine persons, including a Summit county commissioner and the mayor and police chief of nearby Boston Heights village, today were under grand jury indictments that climaxed a two-month probe of bingo and keno operations in Summit county

The three public officials named in the indictments handed down yesterday by the Summit grand jury were Commissioner Murray S Parker and Mayor George Henry and Police Chief Edward Pratt of Boston Heights.

Parker was indicted along with Alex Campbell, identified as the operator of the Hillcrest club in the Portage lakes district, and his son, Donald Campbell, on 127 counts accusing them of promotion and operating a lottery

The indictments named the two Campbells and Parker as incorporators of the club

Mayor Henry and Chief Pratt were accused on 78 counts of receiving bribes. Pratt also was indicted on 13 additional bribery counts

The other four persons named were Franklin E. Sparks, identified as manager of the Liberal club in Boston Heights; Kenneth W. Dickson, an employe of the club, and two persons indicted secretly

Sparks and Dickson were accused on 598 counts of lottery invasion

The investigation, resulting from "suggestions" by Common Pleas Judge Walter B Wanamaker that the jury probe bingo and keno operations also heard the jurist yesterday denounce County Prosecutor Alva J. Russell for a full half hour

Judge Wanamaker said the prosecutor had "failed to cooperate with the grand jury" and had "uttered slanderous statements and half truths" in allegedly lagging in his duties

The nine defendants were ordered arraigned on Sept. 6 All declined comment, and bond for each, with the exception of Pratt, was set at $2,000 Pratt's bond was fixed at $3 000 since he was named in two indictments.

Judge Wanamaker declared the prosecutor "advised this grand jury incorrectly and they lost confidence in you and called me down there to confer with them."

VEECK SAYS FELLER WILL COME THROUGH

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Aug 19—Despite recent public criticism of Bob Feller's pitching form and his post-season barnstorming plans, Cleveland Indians President Bill Veeck declares he believes his ace fireballer "will pitch some great ball from here in."

The ailing Tribe president was in a philosophical mood as he awaited a conference at Cleveland Clinic hospital today with Feller, whose recently announced decision to pitch in the Cuban winter league was vetoed by Baseball Commissioner A B Chandler

"If Bob had talked with me about the Cuban angle," said Veeck, "all the unpleasant publicity would have been avoided I'd have suggested that he clear it with the commissioner before announcing his plans."

The fiery Tribe boss, recovering from a second operation on his right leg, declared "I have no comment on Bob's outside activities I don't know whether they've hurt him or not But I do know this The great majority of the people of Cleveland think they've hurt him.

"You can walk into any building in town and ask the first 20 people you meet 'What's wrong with Feller?' Every one of them will say, 'He's worried about making money in October when he should be concerned about winning games right now'

"Now, that diagnosis may be wrong," Bill admitted "It may be unfair But it's what the people think. And what the people think, if you want my opinion, is what has been bothering Feller"

BROOKLYN SQUASHES CARDINAL FLAG HOPES, 7-5 AND 12-3

Flatbush Crew Set To Finish St. Louis Gang in Last 2 Tilts

By The Associated Press

The Brooklyn Dodgers, fresh from two crushing triumphs over the St. Louis Cardinals, hoped to administer the "coup de grace" today to the pennant ambitions of the Red Birds in the third game of a four game series that no longer is "crucial"—as far as the league-leading Brooks are concerned.

Having blasted the Cards two top southpaws, Howie Pollet and Harry (The Cat) Brecheen in a day-night doubleheader at Ebbets field yesterday, 7-5 and 12-3, to stretch their lead to six-and-one-half games, the jubilant Dodgers now are out of the danger zone in the important set.

Assured of no worse than a split Manager Burt Shotton was all set to call on lefty Joe Hatten to oppose either the Cards' Red Munger or Al Brazle today in the Dodgers' bid to make it seven in a row over the defending world champions. The Brooks defeated the Cards four straight during the last western journey.

66,504 See Games

A total of 66,504 fans, 32,781 for the day encounter and 33,723 for the night affair, watched little Vic Lombardi and Harry Taylor stop the Red Birds.

Lombardi pitched despite the fact that only hours earlier his wife underwent an emergency operation for a burst appendix. He allowed eight hits before tiring in the ninth of the opener. Hugh Casey retired the side on three pitches.

The spunky southpaw came back in the night affair with a three-inning one-hit relief job after Taylor retired from the game because of a strained ligament in his right elbow.

Lombardi's battery mate, Bruce Edwards, was the batting star of the opener. The stocky receiver slammed two tremendous triples to drive in three runs and scored once himself. He also chipped in with a double and single in the aftermath.

The Brooks jumped on Pollet for two runs in the first on Jackie Robinson's ninth homer, a walk and Edwards' first triple.

Whitey Kurowski and Enos Slaughter got those runs back in the second.

The Cards moved ahead, 4-2 in the third on successive singles by Schoendienst, Erv Dusak, a force play, Balk and another one-bagger by Kurowski.

Pollet blew up in the fifth and the Dodgers pushed five runs in.

Another five runs uprising sunk the Cards in the nightcap, entering the third inning on the long end of a 2-1 count.

The Dodgers added another run in the sixth, three in the seventh and another in the eighth.

Kurowski provided the Cards with the only lead they had when he homered in the second. Slaughter drove in the Cards' other two markers with a two-run circuit blast in the sixth.

The second game was a playoff of the disputed July 20 game which the Dodgers won in the ninth 3-2, only to have National league President Ford Frick uphold the St. Louis Protest.

The twin-bill was the only regular action in either the National or American league.

TO COACH AT LONDON

LONDON, O., Aug. 19—London High school today boasted a former Ohio State football star as head coach, Dr. William F. (Bill) Hackett, who won All-America recognition at O.S.U. in 1944 and captained the Bucks in 1945.

Lima Divides With Dodgers

By The Associated Press

Home runs featured five games played in the Ohio State league last night.

Circuit-leading Zanesville won the first of a doubleheader at Lima when right fielder Joe Breslin clouted a homer in the seventh and final inning to win the game, 5-4. Breslin, formerly played with Lima. The Terriers bounced back to win the nightcap, 6-4.

At Muncie, Ind., the Packers won a 1-0 victory over Dayton in the first game on rightfielder Bob Moning's home run in the fourth, then the Indians won the second game, also a shutout, 5-0.

Two Richmond Roses home runs edged the Springfield Glants, 7-6, at Springfield. The Roses won in the last inning when Manager Rex Carr doubled to left, scoring Verrier.

Prep Coach Knew 'Em as 'The Brat' and 'The Squirt'—Sports Fans Call 'Em 'Mr. Outside' and 'The Whip'

By BOB MYERS
Associated Press Sports Writer

LA VERNE, Calif. — Former high school Coach John C. Price well remembers two of his proteges, Glenn Davis and Ewell Blackwell.

Davis, he recalls, was regarded as something of a brat by the older boys around town, and Blackwell was "just a little squirt" when he came out for baseball at Bonita Union high.

Glenn, of course, soon became the star of Bonita's championship football team and eventually one of the greatest All-America halfbacks in West Point history, and Blackie, shooting up like a reed, today is the ace of Cincinnati Reds' pitching staff and recently won 16 straight games.

"The older boys," says Price, "called Glenn a brat because Glenn, and some of the other youngsters including my own son Dave, were always grabbing up a football or a headgear and trying to play with the bigger boys.

"He was just a little shaver then, but anyone could tell the way he handled a football he was a natural.

Too Small To Pitch

"And Blackie," Price continues, "well, I only had him the first two years on the baseball team. He played the field. He was too small to pitch, but I think his father had always planned for his boy to be a pitcher."

Here Price, who retired as football coach and physical education director at the school in 1944 after nearly 18 years in the job, paused. Whatever credit for coaching Blackie in those green years in the late 1930's should go, he said, to Orv Thompson, now with the Y. M. C. A. in nearby Anaheim, Calif.

The unusual thing about Price, incidentally, is that after holding the coaching job so long and retiring, he was still a popular man with the townsfolk; so much so they named him mayor.

It remained for his wife to reveal his official position in this orange-grove hamlet of several thousand, because John Calvin Price, a youngish, wiry man of 46, just won't talk about himself.

And he is most reluctant to discuss even Davis or Blackie for fear someone will think he is trading on their fame.

Former Bonita, Calif., High school coach John Price, left, and one of his famed proteges, Glenn Davis, watch Price's nine-year-old son, Stanley, hop over a hurdle. Davis dropped in to see his old coach while on furlough.

It was only when Mrs. Price produced several bulging scrapbooks that he unwound and retraced the exploits of his teams and boys such as Davis and Blackwell.

Teammate of Davis'

The Prices' oldest boy, David, or J. D., was a team and running mate of Davis, and the father once whispered in the strictest confidence to his wife that Dave was a really fine end—but Price would never boast about the boy in public.

He merely said Dave and Glenn were good friends, and let it go at that. But in the middle of the visit, who should drive up in a new automobile, looking for his pal Dave to go swimming, but Glenn himself, on furlough before resuming his Army career and just finished with a movie.

It might be noted that getting Glenn to talk about Glenn was as futile as getting Price to discuss Price.

"Glenn never did go for publicity," Price said after Davis had left. "He got plenty during his high school days here, but it never turned his head the least bit. Proof of this was there was never any jealousy or bad feeling on the team.

"He just loves sports. As a kid he was always playing something all year. All day and into the night, Glenn, my boy and some of the others would be playing.

"Girls?" Price chuckled. "Not much. When Glenn came home this summer Dave got him a date. Afterwards Dave asked him if he'd asked the girl for another date and Glenn said no, he hadn't thought of it."

No Classroom Stars

Neither Glenn nor Blackwell were exactly classroom stars, but Glenn particularly, as Price recalls, studied just enough to maintain his athletic eligibility.

Those years from 1939 to 1943 were big ones for Bonita Union, with Glenn, who once was regularly dunked in the swimming pool for getting in the older boys' hair, the star. In 11 games in 1942 Bonita scored 446 points, Davis accounting for 237 of them.

"But Davis, who called the signals from our single wing, would never call himself for a touchdown play when we were near the goal line. He'd give it to someone else. He made most of his scores from further back around the midfield," Price recounted, adding that Davis always gave much credit to his blocking back, Duane Whitehead, who later became a power with the University of Southern California.

In one game Davis threw two touchdown passes. Both were called back and Bonita penalized, and on the third play from the 40-yard- line Davis elected not to pass and ran for the touchdown. He weighed around 170 pounds, the same as today, and loved contact sports in preference to track or swimming, although he was extremely good in all competition.

Preferred Baseball

Blackwell preferred baseball, of course, but was exceptionally good in basketball, and was a better than average hitter on the diamond.

Price, who looks like he could still qualify as an all-round athlete, as he was at La Verne and Claremont colleges as a young man, says he retired because his other interests demanded his time. Included are some 20 acres of rich citrus land, a hobby of raising saddle horses, and watching the Price children grow up. The youngest boy, Stanley, now nine, wants to be a hurdler like his brother J. D., who was named the outstanding athlete at Occidental college, Los Angeles, last year.

Vandalia Trapshooters Settle Down To Pick New Champion

By FRITZ HOWELL
Associated Press Sports Writer

VANDALIA, O., Aug. 19—Having settled most of the minor matters yesterday when seven champions were named, more than a thousand of the continent's top-bracket shotgun artists will blast away today for one of trapdom's most coveted titles—the North American clay target championship.

This is the one the boys and girls really want to win, for everyone is in on the same basis—200 targets at 16 yards—and the one who emerges with the laurels generally is tagged the best shot in the land.

Only nine times since 1906 have all 200 targets been broken in the big heat.

Yesterday, as 1,100 shooters ranging from 10-year-old kids to 75-year-old veterans blasted at 100 targets, there were 45 perfect scores, and 102 others missed only once.

Greatest Scoring Spree

It was the greatest scoring spree in the roaring Grand's history, but the perfect count which drew the most cheers was that turned in by Lela Hall Frank of Sierra Madre, Calif., to win the women's division of the "champion of champions" race for state titleholders.

Mrs. Frank, six-time winner of the North American clay target championship, cracked 98 of 100 in the tuneup 16-yard race yesterday and then came back in the feature race with her perfect count of 198 of 200 for the day. The best score the North American title has ever been won with was 196 of 200, by Mrs. Frank in 1936.

Walter Beaver of Conshohocken, Pa., who broken 199 of 200 last year, will defend his North American title, as will Rose Palmer of Chicago, who triumphed in the women's sector in 1946 with 95 of 100 when the event was cut in half.

Faces Tough Competition

Beaver, however, faces the toughest sort of opposition, with four-time winner Joe Hiestand of Hillsboro, O., and scores of other top-notchers firing against him.

While Mrs. Frank was winning the women's "champ of champs" race by a single target over Mrs. Roy Meadows of Grimes, Ia., and two over Frances Lee of Fayetteville, N. Y., the men's sector was still snarled, eight shooters, all state champions, deadlocked at 100 straight and were to shoot out in today's feature.

In the eight-way fight were Hiestand, last year's winner Vic Reinders of Waukesha, Wis.; Mercer Tennille of Shreveport, La.; Julis Petty of England, Ark.; Ellis L. Cheek of Clinton, Ind.; Granville Ilseng, reformed professional from Waco, Tex.; Roy G. Cole of Hamilton, Ont., the first Canadian to make a serious bid for the title; and Herb Bush of Canton, Ill.

Champs Crowned Yesterday

Champions crowned yesterday included:

Sub-junior (under 15): David Lee Cook, 14, of Coal Valley, Ill., who defeated Clarence P. Mottinger of Ohio City, O., 25 to 24 in a shootoff after they tied at 97 of 100.

Junior (under 18): Fred David Waldock, 17, of Sandusky, O., 100 of 100 (second time event has had perfect score in 29 years).

Husband-wife: Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Rader, Jeffersonville, O., 197 of 200 (she broke 99, he broke 98).

Veteran (over 70): H. B. Greenmyer, 72, of Piqua, O., defeated Herman Zillgett of Milwaukee 24 to 24 in shootoff after they had tied at 99 of 100.

Father-son: Homer Clark Sr. and Homer Jr. of East Alton, Ill., 199 of 200 (father had 100, son 99).

Brother-brother: Stanley and Walter Ward, McKeesport, Pa., 199 of 200 (Stanley scored 99, Walter 100).

In the pro division John Jahn of Spirit Lake, Ia., J. B. Grier of Wilmington, Del., and Fred Tomlin of Glasboro, N. J., tied at 100 of 100, but did not shoot off.

Smitty Maids Knocked Out

Smitty's Maids were dropped from the state tournament in Columbus last night, 5-4, by the Akron Goodyear lassies.

The game was a 4-4 tie at the end of the regulation seven rounds but in the bottom half of the eighth the Akron team shoved over a run to win. The Maids had won one tourney game and this was their second defeat which dropped them out of the competition for the state crown.

LEADERS IN MARKET GET TIMID SUPPORT

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Aug. 19 — Scattered stock market leaders attracted timid support today although many issues slipped and others were among the slowest of the past month.

Neither steels or rubbers weakened perceptibly in the face of continuing and anti-trust charges filed by the government against these industries. Some short covering and buying again was based on the thought of a fall rally.

New highs for the year were recorded by Celanese (on a pleasing income statement), General Refractories and Standard Oil of Ohio. In front at intervals were U. S. Steel, U. S. Rubber, J. I. Case International Harvester, Western Union, Electric Power and Light, Phelps Dodge, International Nickel, Eastman Kodak, Du Pont, Great Northern Railway, Texas Co. and Colorado Fuel (on a raised dividend).

Cloudy earnings depressed Eastern Air Lines. United Air Lines rounded bottom for the year. Laggards most of the day were Bethlehem, Youngstown Sheet, Goodyear, Goodrich, General Motors, Montgomery Ward, Deere, Douglas Aircraft, Glenn Martin, Union Carbide, American Smelting, J. C. Pennel, U. S. Gypsum, Norfolk and Western and Santa Fe.

SHANTY TOWN GIRLS WIN

The Shanty Town girls softball team won over the Delaware damsels 18-5, to get a measure of revenge for two previous defeats at the hands of the same team. Pitcher Broyles homered for the Marion girls. The game was played at Garfield park Sunday.

The name "dollar" was adopted by congress in 1785 for the monetary unit of U. S. currency because the Spanish dollar was the chief unit of money circulating in the colonies.

Programs on the Air

A father, bitterly disappointed at his son's indifference to the sports of most lads his age, learns from The Master that there are virtues and gifts more important than athletic prowess in "Call Not Any Man a Fool," the drama to be heard during the ABC broadcast of The Greatest Story Ever Told over ABC on Sunday, Aug. 24, at 6:30 p. m. Instead of learning to toss a spear skillfully, the ideal of most youths 2,000 years ago, the boy in the play goes off by himself in the woods to collect rocks and flowers. His father's harshness and lack of understanding drive him from home.

For fifteen years composer Paul Siegel of Brooklyn, N. Y., trod up and down Tin Pan Alley, but nobody would buy his tunes. Four years ago he entered the Army, and now, as a 32-year-old AMG sergeant stationed in Vienna, he has 20 of his tunes topping the popularity listings throughout Europe. On Tuesday, Aug. 12, the Chicago Philharmonic Orchestra, in a special broadcast over the Mutual network, presented the American premiere of the soldier-composer's "Symphonic Diary." And shortly after the broadcast Sgt. Siegel was advised by Mutual's special events director, Jack Paige, that Carl Haverlin, president of Broadcast Music, Inc., had heard the "diary," was impressed with the Siegel style—and now wants the soldier to mail all his unpublished compositions to BMI for possible U. S. publication.

"Dangerous" Inmate Breaks Columbus Jail

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 19—A 27-year-old inmate of Franklin county jail, held on two burglary charges, overpowered a deputy sheriff in a dentists's office, stole the officer's gun and escaped in a commandeered laundry truck, police reported yesterday.

Police identified the escapee—whom they described as "extremely dangerous"—as John Shank of Columbus.

Deputy Henry Bland had taken Shank and two other prisoners to the dentist, said police. The dentist, Dr. P. B. Minton, became suspicious Shank was feigning a toothache and released him from his chair.

Then, police reported, Shank leaped on Bland and escaped.

Hollywood Banker Kills Self Over Secretary

By The Associated Press

NORTH HOLLYWOOD, Calif., Aug. 19 — A bullet through the heart ended the life of a prominent Hollywood bank president yesterday and Det. Lt. E. W. Smith said the victim left a note for his 31-year-old private secretary which read in part:

"To think that you are now in the arms of another man is more than I can stand."

Seven notes — one tucked in the secretary's picture — were left by Claude A. Adams, 67, president of the Hollywood State bank, with two of them addressed to Miss Merna Lassen, who resigned last June after serving as his secretary for 13 years, Detective Smith said.

The body of Adams, a widower who lived alone in a new $70,000 home, was found sprawled across a bed. A .38 caliber pistol in the left hand and one wound in the left chest, Smith reported.

DODGER-PHIL TIE ORDERED PICKED UP

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Aug. 18 — An angry President Ford Frick of the National league yesterday ordered that Sunday's second game between the Brooklyn Dodgers and Philadelphia Phillies at Shibe Park be replayed as a "suspended game," starting at the last half of the seventh inning with the Dodgers leading, 5-4.

Seething after receiving a report from his umpires, Frick called the game, which was halted by the 7 o'clock Pennsylvania curfew, a "farcial exhibition which was a disgrace to baseball and a complete travesty of all the rules of sportsmanship."

The game was called at 6:58 p. m. by Umpire George Barr shortly after Harry Walker, first Philadelphia batter in the last of the seventh inning, had taken his place at the plate. The count was two balls and one strike, and that is precisely where the two clubs will resume play on Sept. 25.

Frick was angered by umpires' report that the Phillies deliberately stalled for time after the Dodgers scored what might have been the winning run in the first half of the seventh.

"This office cannot and will not tolerate such tactics, nor can it condone the resultant profit which would accrue to the two clubs involved as the result of replaying this game (from its beginning)" Frick said.

The remaining two and one-half frames will be played off before the start of a regularly scheduled game between the two clubs on Sept. 25.

LOVE'S PERILOUS PATH

By ADELE GARRISON

"OH, Mary darling!" I exclaimed ecstictically, putting my arms around her in a tender embrace. "I am so glad! Nothing could make me gladder!"

She drew back in my arms and gave me a curious look.

"And the nicest thing about that speech is that you mean it," she said. 'Haven't you reflected what this planned parenthood of Noel's and mine might do to your play?"

I snapped my fingers scornfully.

'A play is only a play!" I declared. "But a child . . . !"

"You really mean it!" she said again, incredulously. "Oh, Auntie Madge, I do think you are the most unselfish woman in the whole world! But you can bet my darling old meanie of a step-papa-in-law isn't thing along those lines. He's thinking in terms of the boxoffice only. No, I'll give him credit there; he doesn't care for money as such, but his yen for an artistic Veritzen production tops everything else in his mind."

"On the contrary," I told her placidily, "just before you came in, he was voicing his keen desire for grandchildren before he should get too old to enjoy them."

A Keen Glance

She shot a keen glance of reproach at me.

"And you wouldn't discuss that with me before Noel and I talked things over," she reminded me.

"I didn't discuss it with him," I said. "He did the discussing."

He would," she agreed, dimpling.

'I professed complete ignorance —truthfully—of your attitude and Noel's, but when he began to conpecture reasons for what ne thinks is your reluctance to have a child, I told him a few plain truths for the good of his soul."

"I wish I'd been around to hear them," she said, and then shot another keen look at me.

"I want to hear that conversation, vertatim, soon," she told me, "but I don't think I'm up to it just now."

"And I certainly am not up to telling you before I get my breath over your news," I told her. 'I will tell you all about it later, when Aunt Katharine has given you a green light for more excitement. but there is one thing, in justice to your father-in-law, which I think I should tell you now."

"He don't need no jestice, dat man!" she declared, rebelliously, "for he don't deserve it. All he needs is plenty of mercy, which he'll probably get, though he don't deserve dat neither!"

"Nevertheless, I think you should know his viewpoint," I said. "He cited the number of actresses who combined motherhood and a career. I think his ideal is the old actress in 'The Royal Family,' who said that her other children had caused her to miss a performance, but 'Julie was a little lady. She was born in Holy Week'."

Undiluted Mirth

Mary laughed until she wiped her eyes, and I looked at her anxiously, for I knew how perilously close laughter had been to tears since she came home. But this, patently was undiluted mirth, and I relaxed, rejoicing.

"He has a thought there," she said, "and I'm enough of a trouper to dally with it. But Noel has other ideas, although he has enough of the theater in him not to be too old-fashioned. But do you know what we were hoping?"

"I haven't the slightest idea," I told her, truthfully, with a wary eye on the door, for I expected Katharine to be coming in with the intention of "riding herd" on Mary.

"That he would postpone my come-back for another year," she said. "That would give me time to have my baby and arrange for his proper nursing care—you notice, I say 'his'—before appearing on Broadway again. But this four months' idea of my step-papa-in-law's for producing the play—well, now I don't know what to do. Tell me, Auntie Madge, shall Noel and I shelve our planned parenthood for awhile, while I go on with 'my career'?"

INDIAN LAKE NIGHT CLUB ORDERD SHUT

By The Associated Press

BELLEFONTAINE, O., Aug. 19—Common Pleas Judge Elmer L. Godwin granted a temporary order restraining Roscoe Ails from operating the Paddock club at Russell's Point, Indian Lake, a well-known Logan county night spot.

The order was granted upon petition of the Logan County Prosecutor Mrs. Mary F. Abel, declaring the establishment a nuisance.

The action followed by minutes assessment of $100 fines and costs against Ails and three bartenders, Wilbur Achor, J. A. Payne and James Collins, all of whom pleaded guilty variously to charges of keeping a place where intoxicating liquors were sold without a license and to selling liquor illegally.

Ails and his bartenders were arrested yesterday in a raid by state liquor inspectors out of the Dayton office. The information against Ails and his men was signed by Inspector Richard L. Buckel of Dayton.

No date for a hearing on a permanent restraining order was set.
